TOPDD Interviews State Representative Eddie Lucio, III

Recently, TOPDD had the pleasure of connecting with Texas State Representative Eddie Lucio, III. Representative Lucio represents District 38, a region along the border in southwest Texas, where he was born and raised. We met with Rep. Lucio to learn more about his commitment to safety, how to make positive change, and how he addresses safety as an elected official.

Representative Lucio believes that all Texas children need to be provided with safe and healthy communities in order to thrive. Since his election in 2007, Representative Lucio has been a champion for the safety and well-being of Texas children and families.

"We are only as good as the next generation," he stated. After becoming a father in 2009, Rep. Lucio had new insight into the importance of children's health and wellness. Representative Lucio states that being a father has helped him to appreciate the need for public safety, children's health, and education.

About TOPDD

TOPDD is an independent state office with public-private partnerships across the state to prevent developmental disabilities. The office strives to improve outcomes for kids in Texas because keeping children safe is a top priority!

One way to help keep kids safe is connecting safety leaders and keep prevention and intervention as an important focus in our state. TOPDD is privileged to work with leaders and organizations to guide its work.

TOPDD can't do its work without you!

84th Texas Legislative Session

Every two years, Texas elected officials meet in Austin to pass legislation and create a budget for Texas.

The 84th Legislature begins on January 13, 2015 and runs through June 1, 2015. During this time, your elected officials will vote on a wide range of bills, including issues on child safety, prevention, health care, and education.

Voice your support and concerns on issues that affect Texas children and their safety!

To find out who represents you, and what issues they care about, visit the Texas Legislature online:

Child Safety: 4 Ways to Advocate

Check out these useful tips.

1. Choose an issue that matters to you and stay up-to-date on what's going on. Read Policy Search Tips on Page 7.
2. Start making the case to support your issue. Put pen to paper, or fingers to the keys and list facts around the issue affecting you. Having an organized list of key arguments is helpful for framing your issue. Personal stories are very impactful!
3. Work with others. Attend and speak out at public forums, share your story with your local newspaper or online forum, or join advocacy groups that care about your issue.
4. Connect with your elected officials. To get started, find out who represents you online: www.fyi.legis.state.tx.us/Home.aspx

Write a letter, make a phone call, or set-up a meeting with your elected officials' office to share your story and the facts about your issue. Continue to stay in touch; they need to hear from you regularly to help improve child outcomes in Texas!

Spotlight on Policy: TOPDD Interviews State Representative Eddie Lucio, III

"Children require good policies to be in place because they can't speak for themselves," stated Rep. Lucio.

While in office, Rep. Lucio has worked tirelessly on policy issues about prevention and intervention, which include: a bill to expand Medicaid services to increase eligibility for families of children with special needs; work with the University Interscholastic League (UIL) Medical Advisory Committee to prevent concussions and traumatic brain injury by limiting full-contact football practices; and establishing the Interagency Task Force for Children with Special Needs, which improves the availability and coordination of services for kids with serious mental illness and developmental disabilities.

"People can best impact government by sharing their experiences."

– State Representative
Eddie Lucio, III

As Representative Lucio starts his 5th legislative session in January, he plans to continue to keep children and families central to his role. He hopes to focus on transition services for children in public schools with developmental disabilities as well as limiting texting and driving. As an elected official, Rep. Lucio remains committed to listening to the public and making sure that their needs and concerns are heard. For those seeking to make a difference, he offers advice: "People can best impact government by sharing their experiences. We rely heavily on you to inform us on what we need to do. Connect with your elected officials."

ADVOCACY IN ACTION

Cherie Stanley is many things. She's an Instructional technologist, an educator and technical Guru, a self-described lifelong learner, and most importantly, Cherie is a mom and an advocate on behalf of her daughter, Annie Stanley.

Cherie works diligently to raise awareness in her community about her daughter's disability. She has organized several community events and has also contacted her local news station to inform the public about some of the challenges her family faces.

You TOO can be an ADVOCATE in your community!

Holiday Safety Tips

The holidays are a great time for family and festivities, but they are also a time when child injuries increase. Protect your little ones this season from common holiday dangers.

- 1) Keep decorative plants and “bubbling lights” out of reach of children because they may be poisonous if ingested.
- 2) Avoid choking hazards and keep tree ornaments, light bulbs, icicles, tinsel, and small toys out of reach from babies and toddlers. Keep up with the latest PRODUCT RECALLS by visiting www.safekids.org/product-recalls
- 3) The rise in alcohol consumption during the holidays creates a host of issues. Drink responsibly, keep alcohol cups and containers out of reach of children, don't drink and drive, and stay safe when traveling.

Be extra attentive this holiday and prevent accidents; in the home, at the playground, in stores, and at holiday events. Use this time to talk with your children about being safe and update your household safety plan!

Texas Legislature ONLINE

The Texas Legislature online (TLO) is a state website that lets you learn about state bills and track the ones you care about.

TLO has information about specific bills including if they will be reviewed by legislators, any scheduled public hearings, and dates bills will be voted on.

Bills can be searched by entering specific words or phrases or by browsing by subject. You can create a personal list of bills you wish to follow and opt to receive email notifications on status changes.

Sign up at www.legis.state.tx.us/MYTLO

Try these search words:

“Child”

“Safety”

“Disability”

“Health”

New Topics to follow this session:

- Adapting physical education curriculum to accommodate needs of students with mental disabilities
- Availability of full-day prekindergarten programs in public schools
- Consent to immunization of certain children
- Penalties for smoking tobacco in a passenger vehicle with a child present
- Penalties for texting and driving
- Providing free full-day prekindergarten for certain children
